In Fox Class this week, we have been learning about the artist Peter Thorpe and exploring his colourful, abstract rocket paintings. We have created our own space paintings in the same style using our chosen medium.

This week, hedgehogs we made Anglo-Saxon war shields. We made them from card board and painted them with traditional patterns. We learnt about why it was important for the Saxons to have these patterns on their shield

In Rabbit class we have been learning to retell the story Jack and the Beanstalk.

In science we have been hunting for mini-beasts and putting our findings into a pictogram. Can you go on a mini-beast hunt at home or look for signs of wildlife?
